

THE SUPREME COURT OF OHIO

The Supreme Court of Ohio is established by Article IV, Section 1, of the Ohio Constitution, which provides that “the judicial power of the state is vested in a Supreme Court, Courts of Appeals, Courts of Common Pleas and divisions thereof, and such other courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may from time to time be established by law.” Article IV, Section 2, of the Constitution sets the size of the court at seven — a chief justice and six justices — and outlines the jurisdiction of the court.

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort in Ohio. The court may grant leave to appeal criminal cases from the courts of appeals and may direct any court of appeals to certify its record on civil cases found to be “cases of public or great interest.”

The court must accept appeals of cases that originated in the courts of appeals, cases involving the death penalty, cases involving questions arising under the U.S. Constitution or the Ohio Constitution and cases in which there are conflicting opinions from two or more courts of appeals. The court also must accept appeals from such administrative bodies as the Board of Tax Appeals and the Public Utilities Commission.

The court has original jurisdiction for certain special remedies that permit a person to file an action in the Supreme Court. These extraordinary remedies include writs of habeas corpus (involving the release of persons allegedly unlawfully imprisoned or committed), writs of mandamus and procedendo (ordering a public official to do a required act), writs of prohibition (ordering a lower court to cease an unlawful act) and writs of quo warranto (against a person or corporation for usurpation, misuse or abuse of public office or corporate office or franchise).

The Supreme Court makes rules governing practice and procedure in Ohio courts. Procedural rules adopted by the Supreme Court become effective unless both houses of the General Assembly adopt a concurrent resolution of disapproval. The Supreme Court also exercises general superintendence over all Ohio courts through its rule-making authority. The rules of superintendence set minimum standards for court administration. Unlike procedural rules, rules of superintendence do not require General Assembly review or approval to become effective.

The chief justice assigns judges to trial and appellate courts for temporary duty in cases of a court overload, when a judge is removed from a case because of an affidavit of disqualification and when judges recuse themselves from a particular case.

The court has authority over the admission of attorneys to the practice of law in Ohio and may discipline admitted attorneys who violate the rules governing the practice of law.

The chief justice and six justices are elected to six-year terms on a nonpartisan ballot. Two justices are chosen at the general election in even-numbered years. In the year when the chief justice runs, voters pick three members of the court. A person must be an attorney with at least six years of experience in the practice of law to be elected or appointed to the court. The governor makes appointments for vacancies occurring between elections.

Caseloads

The Supreme Court reports detailed caseload statistics each year in its annual report. Readers are encouraged to review those reports to gain further insight into the work of the court. In the court’s annual report, and here, the court presents performance-related statistics concerning the time to dispose of various case types.

For purposes of this analysis, the court’s overall case filings are presented under four categories: All Case Types Combined, Jurisdictional Appeals, Merit Cases, and Practice of Law Cases.

All Case Types Combined

For all case types combined, the court saw the filing of 2,255 new cases in 2014, representing a nearly 10-percent increase over the 2,055 cases filed in 2013. (See Table 1 and Figure 1).

Jurisdictional Appeals

In 2014, a total of 1,623 new jurisdictional appeals were filed, representing an 9-percent increase over the 1,492 cases filed in 2013. (See Figure 2).

Merit Cases

These are cases the court must hear and render a decision on the merits. The general categories of merit cases consist of the following:

- Original actions
- Habeas corpus cases
- Direct appeals (cases originating in courts of appeals)
- Direct appeals involving termination of parental rights/adoption
- Certified conflicts

Practice of Law Cases
New Filings

- Certified conflicts involving termination of parental rights/adoption
- Appeals from Board of Tax Appeals
- Appeals from Public Utilities Commission
- Appeals for Power Siting Board
- Death penalty cases
- Certified questions of state law
- Appeals from App.R. 26(B) application in death penalty cases
- Other merit cases

In 2014, a total of 513 merit cases were filed, representing a nearly 14-percent increase over the 451 cases filed in 2013. A five-year view of the filing trend for these types of cases reveals an upward trend. (See Figure 3).

Practice of Law Cases

These cases arise from the court’s responsibility to govern the practice of law in Ohio. Included in this category are disciplinary cases involving allegations of ethical misconduct by attorneys and judges, bar admissions cases involving applications from people seeking admission to the Ohio bar, and cases alleging the unauthorized practice of law. The vast majority of practice of law cases involve attorney discipline. In 2014, a total of 119 practice of law cases were filed, representing a 6-percent increase over 2013 when 112 cases were filed. Of the 119 cases filed in 2014, a total of 107 (or approximately 90 percent), were disciplinary cases. Despite some relatively sizable year-to-year volatility, the court’s docket of disciplinary cases has been trending down slightly over the past five years. (See Figure 4).

Time to Disposition Analyses

All Cases

From Filing to Final Disposition

In 2014, the court disposed of 1,958 cases. The mean number of days a case was pending before the court in 2014 increased by 24 percent over 2013 (from 124 days to 154 days). (See Figure 5).

Jurisdictional Appeals Accepted for Merit Review

From Filing to Final Disposition

Decisions in 68 jurisdictional appeals following full merit review were released in 2014. The time to disposition averaged 558 days. (See Figure 6).

Jurisdictional Appeals Not Accepted for Merit Review

From Filing to Final Disposition

The mean number of days taken by the court to consider and dispose of a jurisdictional appeal not accepted decreased by 4 days in 2014, from 96 days in 2013 to 92 days in 2014. (See Figure 7).
